

Carol Burnett tells the story of the time when she sat nose to nose with her daughter in one of those rare but wonderful moments when a mom gets to share her heart. The two of them were on the cusp of a breakthrough it seemed. She remembered times with her own mother which led to life changing decisions. Perhaps this was one of those moments which her daughter would also remember for years.

She paused. As she looked for just the right words to say. Her daughter's eyes searched her mother's face, and she slowly asked, "Mom, how many teeth do you have?"
