Have you ever been accused of preaching “easy believe-ism?” & “cheap grace?” like Paul preached?

“Shall we continue in sin that grace may abound?” Rom 6.1

“slanderosly reported. . .let us do evil that good may come” Rom 3.8

Philip J. Myers

“If you’re not being accused of antinomianism occasionally, you’re probably not preaching the Gospel.
St. Paul himself had to answer criticism on precisely this point.”

Aaron Zimmerman, chairman, Mockingbird blog

When people hear you explain salvation, do they ever accuse you of being easy on sin after one is saved?

Maybe your message isn’t the same as Paul’s. His opponents were accusing Paul of preaching “we [may] continue in sin that grace may abound?” Rom 6.1

For if the truth of God hath more abounded through my lie unto his glory; why yet am I also judged as a sinner?
And not rather, (as we be slanderously reported, and as some affirm that we say,) Let us do evil, that good may come? whose damnation is just. Rom 3.7,8

Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven. Whoso shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me, but whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea. Matthew 18.3-6

Suffer the little children. . .for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

Matthew 19.14

You may be afraid that the doctrine of eternal security will lead to loose living. I understand that. And yes, I’m sorry to say, I know of a few believers who have abused God’s grace terribly. I’m sure you do, too. But let me give you a very simple personal testimony of grace.

My friend, Dan, gave me a nice station wagon when he upgraded into an SUV. We had 9 children and his used vehicle seated 11. What a treat! Do you think that Dan expected me to abuse it just because I didn’t have to pay for it? No. it was his special treat to us because my wife had helped his wife over a couple humps in her life. Was Dan worried that I wouldn’t change the oil or that I would deliberately scrape fence posts or be too careless about avoiding hitting fire hydrants? Of course not. It made him happy that the vehicle which had cost him a great deal of money would help our family, and he wanted us to get many years of enjoyment out of that car.

Now, it is also true that I once gave a car to a friend and he didn’t change the oil and burned up the engine. I was disappointed, but I didn’t take the car back. It was still his car—a gift—in his name.

God also realizes that not all who receive eternal life and the forgiveness of sin will be as grateful as others. But let me encourage you that having been a member of 8 churches in as many states, I personally know thousands of godly friends who believe in eternal security and whose lives have been focused full-bore on pleasing God. Just because they believe in eternal security and “easy-believe-ism” doesn’t mean that they take sin lightly. Just as you do, they hunger after God and get a great deal of enjoyment out of receiving the smile of God on their lives.

They are living the kind of life you would be pleased to see. It isn’t necessary to have the “carrot” of heaven and the “stick” of hell to coerce them into living godly lives. They (we) serve Him joyously for the thrill of seeing His smile on our lives. All people are grieved by those who abuse our kindness, and we're hurt by those who abuse the Father's grace: e.g., David, Abraham, Solomon, Demas, Ananias, and others in Scripture.

If simply believing that Jesus died for my sins and took my place on the Cross is called, "cheap grace," then I was saved by a message as simple as that—at the age of five—in the back seat of a 1949 Chevy. My dad pulled off to the side of the road and led me to meet the Savior on the way home from church. "Easy-Believism" - I wear the badge gladly.

I think "cheap grace" is an oxymoron. As a father of nine children I've extended unmerited grace to my children for years and years. It costs me to love them unconditionally, but it costs them nothing. My own father probably had to extend more grace to me than to my brother and sister combined.

Unfortunately, many assume that more is required for a lecherous woman to be saved than is expected of a thirteen year old girl. Many think it must be made harder for a serial killer to be saved than it is for a third grader. If a kid can come to Christ by child-like faith, so can a hardened criminal, an atheist, a rabbi (Nicodemus?), a terrorist (Paul), a teenager, or the woman at the well. No one comes to mind from the Scriptures as example who came to faith in Christ after years and years of hearing the Gospel presented. I can hardly think of anyone in Scripture who even hesitated before he/she trusted in Jesus.

God is not waiting for us to make a lifetime commitment to obey before we are saved. He is waiting for us to believe He died in our place.

NOT BY WORKS
9 times in 3 paragraphs, one context
"justified by faith without works"

Rom 3:20 Therefore by the deeds of the law there shall no flesh be justified in his sight: for by the law is the knowledge of sin.

Rom 3:21 But now the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, being witnessed by the law and the prophets;

Rom 3:27 Where is boasting then? It is excluded. By what law of works? Nay: but by the law of faith.

Rom 3:28 Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law.

Rom 4:2 For if Abraham were justified by works, he hath whereof to glory; but not before God.

Rom 4:5 But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness.

Rom 4:6 Even as David also describeth the blessedness of the man, unto whom God imputeth righteousness without works.

Rom 4:11 And he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had yet being uncircumcised: that he might be the father of all them that believe, though they be not circumcised; that righteousness might be imputed unto them also:

Rom 4:13 For the promise, that he should be the heir of the world, was not to Abraham, or to his seed, through the law, but through the righteousness of faith.

It all starts with child-like humility—faith.
